Dear friend and KSU graduate,

This is a monumental year for Kent State University as we celebrate its centennial and recognize the tremendous legacy of its first 100 years. Alongside the university has always been the Kent State University Alumni Association (KSUAA) recognizing the important role alumni play in the success of Kent State students and the university as a whole.

During this centennial year, the alumni association is asking for our support. Please consider joining the alumni association through our Centennial Challenge: 100 Days, 100 Ways, 100 Members. This membership challenge is a friendly competition between the alumni association chapters to increase overall membership by 100 members per chapter in approximately 100 days. I hope you will join me in this effort.

Some alumni might ask, “Why you should I become a member?” Everyone has different reasons for joining the alumni association such as staying connected to the university, showing support for Kent State, enjoying the discounts, and other special benefits. But let me share my personal story about membership in the Kent State University Alumni Association with you:

I've always had a special connection to Kent State. Growing up in a nearby community gave me the opportunity to attend summer camps at the university, ice skate at the arena and have hot chocolate at Brady's café long before I was ever thinking about college. When that time came, Kent State was a natural choice for me. My time as a student and my involvement in Greek Life only strengthened my bond to the university. Some of my fondest memories are of sorority formals, painting the rock, Songfests and chapter recruitment. During this time, I met my future husband and he later proposed to me in downtown Kent on the riverfront. Our children now attend camps at Kent State, sled down front campus and look forward to the Homecoming parade each year.

These days I share my pride for the university through my active membership in the Kent State University Alumni Association. I proudly display my membership decal and shout the praises of the university every chance I get to friends and family.

What do I get out of membership? I know my support of the alumni association will help strengthen the university and support student success for the next generation of alumni. I'm giving back to the university which has given me so much over the years.

Please consider joining our friendly chapter competition by becoming a member of the Kent State University Alumni Association today. Join online at www.ksualumni.org/100days or by calling 1-888-320-KENT. It's a great way to show pride in your alma mater and share the excitement of this special centennial year.

Sincerely,
